WHY IT WAS DONE.

The reason for calling a so-called meeting of the Republican county committee to the gubernatorial election is not apparent. It was stated to Mr. Gilmanwater when he was summoned to the chairmanship of the committee that his political power in the county was needed and that he had lost both favor and prestige in the friends on the outside.

The duties of a general delivery work are trying and laborious now, answering questions from all sorts of anxious writers for the letters that never come. But imagine the added burden of that position if a line of refugees numbered his window with that question: "Is my lunch set in on that last mail?"

In large cities some discomfort might cause room overcrowding. But that would be offset by relief from congestion in the municipal buildings. It would also furnish additional excuse for enlarging federal buildings because it is issue in congressional campaigns.

It was a "fine point of law" raised by the incident in Kansas City, Kan., and as the country's editor frequently remarks, "the end is not yet."

His employer and a warrant was issued against him from the city court. When the defendant appeared, to serve the writ they were told that this could not enter the federal building, or upon government property for any such purpose.

At that view of the law should be sustained. Interesting possibilities would be created added interest would attach to Federal buildings. Give the writer of refuge of old, there would become the haven of safety for the offenders in every community while the "upper" informed of such a statute or an ordinance and the "avenger," known in popular parlance as "a limb of the tree" here and on the road, he would risk to the post office.

The police might establish a blockade, throwing a picket line around the government reservation, as they did in Kansas City, Kan., but that would prove of slight inconvenience to the besieged. Refugees could be sent into registered mail from friends on the outside.

Regarding the comment of Mr. de la Barra, the party does not need it, because the existing democratic speaker are based on the national will and not on the state will of the elected. For this reason the regular election can only be reckoned for a serious cause but the classification of this cause corresponds to the nation legitimately represented by the members of delegates when the election comes from the president of the republic.

For this reason the regular election can only be reckoned for a serious cause but the classification of this cause corresponds to the nation legitimately represented by the members of delegates when the election comes from the president of the republic.

But when he had issued his call and began a canvass of the country between the time that he was not recognized as a chairman and that he could not secure a quorum. Now, it is rumored, regular members of the committee chosen by the last convention, are being garnished by the pseudo chairman and his friends and new members appointed in order to have a committee meeting of any kind.

Those so-called committee members have no regular standing and have no authority within the party, and they will not be recognized by the independent voters of this country, nor in the future nor by the party in the state.

Mr. Gilmanwater and his morning crew are up against it. They have nothing left but the Democrats.

THEY AIDED TAFT.

It is amusing to read on statement of Champ Clark, speaker of the house, in reviewing the work of the special session which closed yesterday. Mr. Clark attempts to give the Democrats credit for having accomplished great work along the lines of their platform pledges, whereas the special session, so far as the Democratic house was concerned, has been a farce.

What the Democrats really accomplish during the special session was to demonstrate forcibly to the country that Mr. Taft is a big man, who with a policy and a man with ability and leadership enough to enforce his policies in the face of determined opposition.

Mr. Taft not the Democrats in position where they had to help pass his revenue bill. That done, he sat down and referred their pension tariff bills and took legislation involving the recall of the judiciary in Arizona.

But the thing that most worried the multitude of the people throughout the country. Instead of acting independently and overwhelming Mr. Taft so the Democratic house was confident to expand the people read his plan, realize and articulate vote measures, listened to his name and justify and encourage and assist apparently while the conservative mass made a last effort to pass the Wood tariff amendment over his sole failed efforts and then withdrew in confusion.

Mr. Taft called the special session in the face of a Democratic house and among the counsel of Republicans advised who feared disaster. He called the session in the face of the threats of the Democrats to disrupt his administration and bring down upon him the condemnation of the people.

But though the Democrats used every means of their command, tried every method they could devise and worked throughout the long hot summer to discredit the president. Mr. Taft calmly turned the tables and came out of the fray by far the largest and most respected man of the people.

"What's written is written," declared Mr. Clark, and the president has no reason to dispute the point. It is "written" in Mr. Taft's handwriting.

A NEW USE.

REVOLUTIONISTS ARE AFTER DE LABARRA

Will Disregard Wishes of President and Nominate Him as Presidential Candidate in Spite of Himself.

Mexico City, Mex., Aug. 22.—That de la Barra's disconnection to accept his nomination for the presidency will be disregarded by the Popular Education party, was the statement made by Lie. Jorge Vaca Esquivel when interviewed in connection with the understanding which has been exchanged between de la Barra and Lie. Gen. Esquivel, and more especially regarding de la Barra's refusal to accept his nomination.

In the letter I addressed to Mr. de la Barra," Lie. Vaca Esquivel said, "I asked his opinion, not his consent, on two different points. First regarding the platform of the Popular Education party, and second, relative to his nomination for president. I have had the satisfaction of learning from the reply of Mr. de la Barra that he agrees with the ideals of the party, and that he approves both the principles which it embodies and the ideals it pursues. In conclusion Mr. de la Barra can be the candidate of the Popular Education party as the only requisites necessary are that he accept the platform of the party and that the nomination be made a majority of votes in the national convention.

The proposed new building will be in every way a notable addition to the commercial architecture of the southwest. It is to be of fireproof construction six stories high, and will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.

The decision to proceed vigorously and at once with this most important architectural undertaking was reached

Occidental Skyscraper Will Be Constructed at a Cost of $200,000 Six Stories, Absolutely Fire-Proof

Following Meeting of Executive Committee Last Night, Announcement Is Made Which Will Be Exceedingly Gratifying to People of Albuquerque: First Three Floors of Big Building Will Be Occupied Entirely by Life and Fire Insurance Departments of Phenomenal Young Company.

A first, bright glimpse of the business blessings which are to follow in the wake of statehood was given this morning with the announcement that the Occidental life insurance company is to push just as rapidly its possible preparations for the erection of a new Occidental building—a full-sized skyscraper—at the corner of Gold and Third street.

The proposed new building will be

The program promises the subdivision of property, the liberty of the press and trial by jury of newspaper men, their arrest being impossible unless warranted by the proofs brought against them and limiting the responsibility to the person at fault.

The platform provides forming special courts to decide strikes.

The complete sovereignty of the states, their decentralization and the extension of protection to the federal government when needed, and the construction of roads, the fostering of immigration and the protection of foreign life and property. The dissemination of public instruction and the uplifting of the Indian, the holding of elections and openness and prohibition on contract loans, while there remain funds in reserve, to procure international political harmony, perfecting communications and training of transportation with the Latin American countries and to systematic national defense, giving the military service a democratic and equitable character.

Such is the program to be followed by the Bryan administration should he come into power at the elections in October.

The running mate of General Hayes may be selected in the course of the present week.

Proposed Elevation of New Occidental Building, soon to be erected at cost of $200,000 at corner of Third street and Gold avenue.

ed last evening at a meeting of the executive committee of the company, which is composed of President M. W. Flomley, Vice President Silvano Luna, Vice President George Heslingham, General Counsel A. H. McMillen, and Secretary and General Manager J. H. O'Reilly. Members of the committee were unanimous in their belief that the erection of an adequate home for the Occidental should be undertaken without delay. Their decision was based to a very considerable extent upon their absolute confidence in the benefits to follow the granting of statehood. They were also strongly influenced by the splendid business showing which has been made by the Occidental management during the past year.

In connection with the new building announcement, General Manager O'Reilly stated this morning that there would be inaugurated at once a campaign looking to the issuance in Albuquerque during the next few months of insurance policies aggregating $200,000. In view of the substantial benefits to be conferred upon this community in the erection of the new building, Prudential will be two passenger elevators and the most modern sanitary arrangements.

The determination of the Occidental to lose no time in the pursuance of its building plans is reflected by the fact that tenants occupying the small buildings on the lot at Gold and Third have been notified to be ready to move on short notice.

General Manager J. H. O'Reilly will be here for Denver this evening on business relating to the new building.

Although detail plans of the new building have not been drawn, the accompanying cut will give some idea of the elaborate effect of the proposed structure.

The last of the dress rehearsals of "The Man From Home" was held last night and according to those who saw it the play will go through without a hitch. It was the culmination of months of preparation. Every actor knows his lines as second nature and thus is able to devote his attention while before the foot lights on the development of his character. This night the actors will rest from their arduous labors of preparation and will be the guests of Albuquerque audiences. It is to be noted, also, that Mr. Reinhardt, who is the window artist who has planned and carried out this remarkable display, has dressed his models in the very latest of the season's fashions. Here again he is true to nature. The clothes worn by the models are the Rosenwald standard, which is the aim of perfection, as also the people of Albuquerque are known to be the best dressed west of the Mississippi river.

It was also learned that whatever hope young Vincent Astor may have held in regard to marrying Miss Katherine Force will not be realized.

The young lady is said to be engaged to a wealthy Wall street broker, and announcement of that engagement is expected in a few days.

That Colonel Astor has bestowed upon his bride-elect jewels to the value of a quarter of a million dollars was another interesting revelation that day brought forth.

The first of these gifts was made within a few days of Colonel Astor's introduction to the pretty debutante.

They include antique bracelets, set with precious stones, once worn by the Empress Marie Antoinette.

A diamond necklace, sapphire ring, pearl cuff buttons, each pearl in which is the size of a large pea; pin set with diamonds and a green enamel watch stud.

Miss Force's engagement ring alone is said to be worth $30,000. It has been previously valued at $12,000, but that is now known to be far below its worth. The diamond in this ring is almost square and about 3 to 4 mm. in diameter.

We are advised that Roswell will be making a new building at the cost of $200,000 more, making a total value of alfalfa products of nearly $100,000. He said in part:

The present apparatus is slightly deficient for the present condition of Roswell in the fact that there is no double tank chemical engine provided in either hose wagon. The present amount of hose is satisfactory but could not be carried on one wagon and would be of little use if necessary to be considered as reserve.

The number of men should not be less than six, three men are necessary for property running each hose wagon.

Should the apparatus be retired from active service, or the number of men reduced, the classification of Roswell would necessarily drop to a 4 1/2 grade, entailing increased estimates on insurance buildings of four to eight per cent.

We hope that after mature consideration the council will decide to retain the fire department up to its present highly satisfactory basis of efficiency.

In making comparisons of other cities of New Mexico, full account should be taken of their population, the territory and values protected, and the fire protection classification which has been given to these towns.

All members of the committee are requested to be present, as well as all members of the executive committee and all Republicans generally.

EDWARD A. MANN,
 Chairman Bernalillo County Republican Central Committee.

 Secretary Pro Tem.

The Little Green Tents.

The Little green tents where the soldiers sleep and the sunshades play and the women sleep, are covered with flowers today, and between the tents with the weary few who were young and strong, lay in sixty-two, when they went to the war away. The little green tents are full of sod, and they are not long, and the soldiers have not much, but the soldiers sleep in part of the land they saved, when the flag of doom and death waved, the symbol of dole and doom. The little green tent is a thing divine, the little green tent is a country's shrine, where patriots kneel and pray, and the brave men left, an old age few were young and gallant in sixty-two, when they went to the war away—Walt Mason.
